

Dear Mike,

Thank you for discussing the current gravel pit extraction permits with me regarding the MacQuinn pits referred to as the Kittredge Pit and Asher Pit.

As we discussed, MacQuinn did not show on his three year extraction plans all of the properties to be open and excavated. It does not appear by current ordinance that the three year colored plans represent an absolute boundary of the pit excavation area, only a forecast or projection of anticipated activity. My understanding is as long as the operator complies with all of the standards within section 8 of the gravel ordinance (noise, hours, water table separation and setbacks), the operator can move the operation within the approved site plan boundaries.

Due to owner concern of the pending ordinance changes, which will take away much of the area MacQuinn had planned on mining in the future, MacQuinn hereby notifies you of immediate plans to clear the land and excavate the areas which would be severely affected by the proposed ordinance change along adjoining properties which are not properties operated as a gravel pit. Attached are plans of the Kittredge Pit and Asher Pit showing the areas MacQuinn will be opening up in the very near future.

If you have any concerns, please let me know. You are always welcome to inspect the activity in the pits.

Regards,
Steve Salsbury
